SOCIAL SEATING

Posted on May 6th 2011

The design of Aram Lello's Community Bench is both multi-functional and great for encouraging social interactions.

Here's a seating design that could work really well as bench seating system in urban communities. It could work just as well in a gallery, school or suburban garden.

Aram Lello's Community Bench is an easily adjustable and multi-functional bench that works to encourage social interactions. The design is such that the material options extend to wood, plastic and aluminium.

The Community Bench was Lello's entry into the Western Cape Furniture Initiative's Shack Chic seating design competition which called on designers to create seating options prioritising comfort and practicality. Lello's design, along with the other finalists, were first seen at Design Indaba Expo earlier this year.

Great crates

It's multi-functional, recycled and a great mate for kids. What more do you need from a storage system?

News Snippet

Call for entries: Chic seating

The Western Cape Furniture Initiative is challenging local furniture designers to respond creatively to a "Shack Chic" seating brief.
